A Wonderful Filly.

A filly which is expected to break $100,000's great 3-year-old record is Kentucky Union's filly. This filly recently recently trotted a mile at Independence, Mo., in the remarkable time of 2:14. And this time was made in a trial with a racehorse as a runner up, but in a driving race with seasoned trotters. And Kentucky Union won in three straight heats. When the present

KENTUCKY UNION, 3:14 1/2, won started in her record was 2:46, which, under the careful mentorship of Sam

Fuller, has been pulled down more than half a mile. Conservative horsemen already predict that if Kentucky Union lives and keeps up her present form, Nancy Hecker will have to go still lower in 1924 if she wishes to retain the title of "Queen of the Turf."

The following is a list of the marriage licenses issued last week, with the names, residences (when outside the city) and ages of the parties:

Lars Peter Peterson, Anna Wilhelmson, 25-30, Garfield. Anson R. Schran, Muskegon, Mich., 25-30, 25-30. Govert Breen, Mary Vander Weide, 25-30, 25-30.

POWER OF ROYALTY.

Just at this time is an opportune occasion for giving a brief outline of the functions of the English government. This is admirably done by N. O. Winter, English correspondent for The National Tribune, and the following facts are quoted from him:

The queen is sovereign in name only. Her individual will weighs almost as much as the queen's. Her official acts are those of the party in power.

The "queen's speech," so called, read at the opening of every parliament, is prepared by the leaders of the prevailing party and contains a setting forth of the measures which it is proposed to pass. Although at heart a Tory, yet should the Liberals be successful she would be obliged to appoint the cabinet proposed by that party. She has veto power on all bills, I believe, yet she would not dare exercise it.

Her "gracious approval" is a matter of course after the bill has passed the two houses. Since the Seventeenth century, when parliament repudiated the claims of the Stuart family and established a rival claimant on the throne, the choice of sovereign rests with the house of commons. Of course, unless for special reasons, the direct line would be chosen; but should one sovereign become obnoxious he or she would be signing the death warrant of their respective house. The monarch serves as a figurehead—as an official representative of the government.

None of the royal family, although occupying seats in the house of lords, take any part in politics. In return for their magnificent salaries they pay coronations, attend public gatherings and furnish matter for public gossip.

The tendency of late years is toward the abolishment of the hereditary house of lords. Although such an event may not occur very soon, yet it will no doubt be the final result. The necessary turning point toward such an outcome would be obstinacy on the part of the lords toward any favorite measure of the commons. The lords appreciate the situation, and as a rule are obedient, and their approbation is generally only a matter of form. If they oppose a measure a second return of it by the commons generally has the desired effect, and some important amendment will probably be tacked on merely to preserve their own dignity. In this respect their proceedings are generally very tame in comparison with the occasional stormy sessions of the lower house.

There is also another way by which the obstinacy on the part of the lords may be overcome. That is by additions to their own ranks. Peers can be created at any time and without any limit of number. Political leaders are often given peerages for eminent services.

Should some important measure be obstructed in the house of lords a sufficient number of new peers of the right faith might be created to overcome the opposing faction. This extreme is one, however, that has not been resorted to for many, many years.

The house of commons is a favorite training place for the heirs of hereditary peerages. It gives them a training in the usages and tactics of debate and legislation which grants a certain prestige when compelled by cruel fate to transfer their sphere of action to the upper house.

A wide difference in the political systems of the two countries is found in the elective system. The duration of a parliament is indefinite, the time of election equally so, and other things differ from the clockwork regularity of the American elective system.

The extreme life of a parliament is seven years, or it may be dissolved at any intermediate time by command of the sovereign; also, in the case of some new policy, the members may be obliged to submit themselves for re-election on that issue. Such was the case with the Gladstone party on the Home Rule question.

When parliament has been dissolved writs are issued to all the constituencies for a new election. A day for nomination is appointed, not simply for party nomination, but each intending candidate's name must be presented. If there is only one then he is declared elected, otherwise a poll is ordered for a certain day, when ballots are deposited by the qualified electors as in the states.

To the person of careful observation it will be apparent that the British voter remembers to more ways than one the American voter. While it is true that the Britisher is a freer agent than his American cousin, yet he is quite as easily influenced and has an equal faith in the party leaders.

Elections may occur on any day within a certain limit, and not simultaneously all over the country. Likewise a man may vote in as many districts as he possesses the necessary property qualifications. There is not a manhood suffrage here, but one of property, so that one person may possibly vote for several candidates. The qualifications are of three different kinds—a man must possess freehold property which brings in a clear income of a small amount, or he must occupy rented premises of the value of fifty dollars yearly, or, third, a man must occupy lodgings worth $1.25 per week. The two latter require the occupation of the same premises for one year previous to election.—S. W. Foss in Yankee Blade.

When Nature

Needs assistance it may be best to render it promptly, but one should remember to use even the most perfect remedies only when needed. The best and most simple and gentle remedy is Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup company.

HAPPY HOME CLUB AGAIN.
The Dunlop Cure for Drunkenness Commends Itself.

The work that is being done by the Happy Home Club in pushing to the front the Dunlop cure is certainly commendable. That the Alpena physician's remedies are as good as the world renowned Keely's must be admitted if results are the proper criterion to judge by. No injurious results follow the use of the Dunlop remedies, and what seems incredible none of the graduates lapse. The cure is working wonders in this city. It is simply marvelous the changes that have been wrought in those under treatment. A patient who entered on Friday last so completely shattered in his nervous system that he had to be helped put a glass of liquor to his lips, has already lost all desire for it and is sober and doing business. This is but one of the numerous cases of like character that might be cited. The number of patients is increasing daily and a reputable physician, a graduate of Trinity university, Toronto, Dr. Irwin and late of Alpena, where he was under a special course of instruction by Dr. Dunlop, the author of the system, is in charge of the medical department. Patients wishing to consult him privately or take the treatment without the knowledge of their friends, can do so by calling at the club rooms, No. 34 Monroe street.

The Date of Ohio People's Excursion

To Cleveland, O., is October 11, 1922. Special train will leave Grand Rapids via the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway at 6 p. m., arriving in Cleveland at 6:50 on the morning of the 12th. Fare for the round trip only $8.15.

Suggestions for a Summer Trip.

If you wish to take the trip of a lifetime, purchase the low rate excursion tickets sold by all principal lines in the United States and Canada via the Northern Pacific railroad, Yellowstone National Park, Pacific coast and Alaska.

The trip is made with the highest degree of comfort in the elegant vestibule trains of the Northern Pacific railroad, which carry dining cars and luxurious Pullman sleeping cars from Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis to Montana and the Pacific coast, without change, and special Pullman sleepers from St. Paul and Minneapolis to Yellowstone Park.

The scenery en route is the most magnificent to be found in the seven states through which the road passes. Beautiful mountains, rivers, valleys, lakes and plains follow each other in rapid succession to delight the tourist who will also find interest in the agricultural, mining, lumbering, industrial and other interests associated with the development of the great northwest.

The crowning glory of the trip through the northwest, however, is the visit to Yellowstone Park, the land of hot springs, geysers and gorgeous canyons, and to Alaska, with its endless ocean channels, snow-capped peaks, Indian villages and glaciers.

If you wish to investigate this suggestion further send to Charles S. Fox, general passenger agent, N. P. R. R., St. Paul, Minn., for copies of the hand-somely illustrated "Wonderland" book, Yellowstone Park and Alaska folders.

Remember the cabinetmakers' meeting in Germania hall Friday evening.

Leonard's!

You would be surprised if we told you the number of those 25c Hungarian vases we have sold in the last two days. The people of Grand Rapids are not slow in recognizing a true bargain. Why, one lady said she had paid $2 for vases that were not as pretty as some of these 25c ones; they make
